How to resolve conflict from the Montessori perspective.

Differences in opinion are part of human interaction. They are necessary and positive, so it's important to understand the tools that will help us resolve our differences amicably.

This lovely illustrated book discusses conflict resolution strategies from the Montessori perspective. With these tools, we will be able to mediate everyday situations, such as two children fighting over the same toy.

- The Montessori method fosters autonomy, self-confidence and concentration in children.

Like Cats and Dogs

David Domínguez Author
Laura Estrada Illustrator
Beascoa, November 2021
Hardcover, 270 × 240 mm, 32 pp

Dalí and Ágata, the terrible twosome, are back for good.

Dalí and Ágata are desperately chasing a mouse. After they catch it, it's supposed to be the mouse's turn to chase the cat and dog. But not this time, because the mice are having a meeting.

Ágata and Dalí join as special invited guests, and they offer to seek out and capture a new, strange mouse who would rather eat fish than cheese. They split up to cover more ground, but neither one finds the eccentric rodent. Maybe they'll have more success if they look together? And what will they do with this odd creature once they find her?

What Do I Need When ...

#1 What Do I Need When I Get Angry?

#2 What Do I Need When I'm Afraid?

Tania García Author
Núria Aparicio Illustrator
Beascoa, July 2020 / April 2021
Hardcover, 200 x 260 mm, 64 pp / 48 pp

A picture book based on respectful and conscious education.

When Dami gets angry, she screams, cries, throws herself to the floor, kicks, pulls at her hair... But she is not behaving badly, she is just expressing her emotions.

The author explains to us what children need when they get angry and, thus, what parents should do in these moments to understand them and experience it with them.

#7 in kids' books in Spain.
4th reprint.

The keenly awaited second illustrated album from Tania García, that tackles the second most common "problem" in families: the problem of fear.

Dami's little sister, Luna, tells us about what she expects from her adults whenever she is afraid of the dark, afraid of her first day at school, afraid of going to the doctor's, or the fear she feels when it is raining heavily. The author provides us with the answers and offers the best advice to ensure that adults know how to react and help children manage an emotion as intense and natural as fear.

Tania García is a leading author on respect-based learning and she has a large community of followers.

Little Rolls: My First Montessori Accordion Book

Magela Ronda

Penguin Kids November 2021
Hardcover, 158 x 158 mm, 16 pp

An all-cardboard accordion book for our babies' first time rolling over on their own.

Beginning in their fourth month, babies start rocking on their own and raising their little heads with their bellies pressed against the floor. But they still can't roll all the way around without help. Pediatricians recommend placing them in this position for a few minutes every day to foster their ability to do what they already know they have to: improve their upper body strength.

This book is for precisely those moments, so that babies can have fun looking at black-and-white illustrations, ideal for those first months of life, when they still can't distinguish between colors. And when they can finally see them... You flip the accordion book over and they can see the same shapes again, this time in color!

- Stimulates independent movement and observation skills.
- Black-and-white illustrations that encourage visual exercise during babies' first months.

I Don't Want To Share

Marta Moreno

Penguin Kids November 2021
Hardcover, 210 x 295 mm, 48 pp

A question all parents have to answer sooner or later: why do we have to share?

A delightful story in which Víctor heads off on vacation with his parents and, thanks to a housing swap, learns the advantage of sharing with others. The same Víctor who wouldn't let anyone touch his toys—not even his little brother—learns that generosity is one of life's greatest joys.

Because everything is more fun when you share.

- With illustrations by Marta Moreno, illustrator of the picture books Miriam Tirado: El hilo invisible and La fuente escondida.

Lucy. A Different Kind of Welcome

Pato Mena

Beascoa, September 2021
Hardcover, 210 × 280 mm, 48 pp

| Have you ever noticed we're all weirdos?

There's a new girl in school. There she is, sitting over there. Look how weird she is. The teacher says we have to be nice to her. We'll see if we can. But what if we look for things we all have in common? For example, that we all love carrots. Oh, wait, some of us prefer sandwiches, or apples, or croissants... How about another example: we all take the bus to school. Oh, wait, some of us ride our bikes, or we walk, or we take the subway. Hmm... That's so weird!

Maybe we aren't all as similar as we thought. Or maybe it's just that we're all different.

Kangaroo Micro-Stories To Make You Happy

The Moon's Magic

Anna Morató García Author
Xavier Bonet Illustrator

Beascoa, October 2021
Hardcover, 230 × 300 mm, 32 pp

A story to help you achieve whatever you set out to do

“Why can we see the moon sometimes, even though it’s still daytime? And why can’t we see it other times, even though the sun has set?” César can’t find answers to these questions, so his mother decides to explain it to him using a beautiful fable about the magic we have within ourselves, and how it helps us make decisions without letting anyone tell us what we are or aren’t capable of.

After the success of Growing Up To Be... Happy, Growing Up To Be... Happy 2, Let’s Get Along, I Believe In You, Anna Morató brings us a new children’s book intended to be read as a family.

I'm Afraid

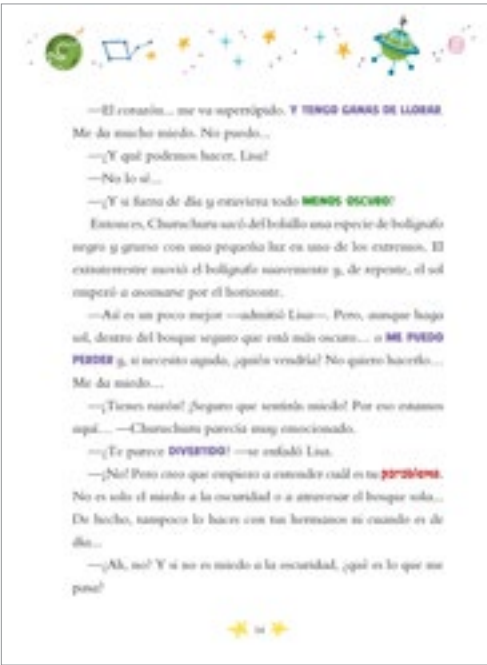

Alberto Soler Author
Concepción Roger Illustrator

B de Blok, May 2021
Hardcover, 200 × 260 mm, 48 pp

An illustrated book to help children recognise and deal with their fears.

Churuchuru the Martian has always wanted to visit Earth. When he finally does, he discovers that there are two kinds of Earthlings: adults and children. While he has the most in common with the children, sometimes they react in ways that fascinate him: they seem afraid of everything. Will Churuchuru be able to learn more about humans because of them? Or will the children learn more about themselves because of Churuchuru?

Goodnight, Meow

Olga Sesé

Beascoa, September 2021
Hardcover, 250 × 250 mm, 48 pp

| A story for deep sleep.

It's time for the kids to go to sleep. Is there a father or mother alive who hasn't hoped for a calm, easy bedtime... Only for the exact opposite to happen?

This book tells a story specially designed to make bedtime a calm, relaxed, intimate moment, using a special method that really works. The back of the book includes an explanation for adult readers.

- Includes an explanation of the method and specific tips for parents and adults, along the lines of The Rabbit Who Wants to Fall Asleep.

Cool Stories For Positive Parenting

Isabel Cuesta & Daniel Pérez Authors
Martosauriuss Illustrator

Beascoa, June 2021
Hardcover, 200 × 200 mm, 96 pp

| A really cool mum shares her own illustrated stories about bringing up positive kids.

Cool Stories for Positive Parenting is a collection of five short stories (Claudia's Wish, Pop Gets Distracted, The Stool, Alonso's Lesson, and I'm a Baby) inspired by real-life situations from the author's own experience. Each story applies the principles of positive parenting to topics that touch us all: anger and temper-tantrums, making mischief, teamwork, the arrival of a sibling, and bad behaviour. Possible solutions can be found both in the stories themselves and in the sections with advice for families that accompany them.

Stories for Educating With Love and Respect

Penguin Kids November 2021
Hardcover, 205 x 205 mm, 48 pp

Because there isn't just one skin color, there are many

A crayon shows up on the first day of school and thinks all the kids will use it to color pictures of themselves. But it's wrong. This is an overdue conversation in our society, especially when it comes to our little ones, helping them to unlearn stereotypes they shouldn't have been taught in the first place. This is a story about putting yourself in someone else's skin, learning that we're all different and recognizing that's something to celebrate.

A book by Desirée Bela-Lobedde, author of the successful Being a Black Woman in Spain.

Who Am I?

#1 Who am I? The Forest

Pedro Mañas

Beascoa, October 2021
Hardcover, 220 x 220 mm, 32 pp

First poems for young readers through the magic universe of the senses and natural elements.

The Forest rests in his hideout and leaves footprints in the grass wherever he steps. When he jumps over rocks to cross the river, they make sounds like piano keys; the Forest, like the Moon, has his own music.

- Stresses the importance of the five senses: what the child smells, hears, touches, sees and tastes.

In Who Am I?, Pedro Mañas shares a poetic exploration of a landscape or natural phenomenon, but with a twist: the poetic voice belongs to that same natural element, personified in a child. Thus, in each book we meet the little girls Moon and Storm, and a little boy named Forest.

#2 Who am I? The Moon

Pedro Mañas

Beascoa, October 2021
Hardcover, 220 x 220 mm, 32 pp

A beautiful volume about respectful child-raising, listening to our children and the importance of giving them what they need.

A little girl named Moon sleeps in the sky above the clouds. When she wakes up, she sneezes, and her freckles fall off and become the stars. She swims in the sea and the waves sparkle. She chases bats and illuminates dark alleys. When she approaches a window, she sees a little boy and sings him a lullaby.

#2 The Hidden Fountain

Miriam Tirado Author
Marta Moreno Illustrator

B de Blok, February 2021
Hardcover, 270 x 300 mm, 64 pp
Rights sold: Portugal (PRHGE), Poland (Jedność), Basque (Erein Argitaletxea)

A precious collection about the invisible bonds that give us roots and reconnecting with ourselves, two facts which make us happy and stable adults.

According to psychologists and parenting specialists, a stable bond gives children the strength to overcome traumatic experiences and develop emotionally. The present illustrated collection shows us in a way that the whole family will love what a bond is (in nature, among animals and human beings) and why it is important.

Miriam Tirado is a parenting consultant who has been working for fourteen years in Spanish radio and television. She actually organizes talks and support groups for new mothers. Since 2011, her blog has offered advice about raising children ages zero to six, and since 2015 she has spoken to viewers directly through her YouTube channel.

Our Inner Jewel

Anna Llenas

Beascoa, November 2021
Hardcover, 230 x 278 mm, 64 pp

We're all born with a jewel within us. It's our internal me, our essence, the most precious things we possess.

As we grow up, the world makes us look outward, rather than inward at our own needs, emotions, reflections... and slowly, we lose our connection to our inner jewel.

Because no matter how many times we stumble, make a mistake or mess up, we shouldn't forget that if we have our inner jewel, we'll never be alone; we'll have ourselves for company.

- In the same vein as Vacío, one of the author's deepest and most moving picture books, which has sold 42,000 copies since its publication in 2015.

Grannies: Each in Her Own Way

Bea Taboada Author
Viv Campbell Illustrator
B de Blok, November 2021
Hardcover, 270 x 300mm, 48 pp

A sophisticated non-fiction picture book with a universal theme: grandmothers.

Abuelas, a crossover picture book about the unconditional love that all grandchildren feel toward their grandmothers.

If there's one thing that all grandmothers have in common, it's their ability to elicit affection and give love to their grandchildren. Regardless of how and what grannies do, all grandchildren love their grandmothers simply for being who they are.

This story talks about different ways of being a grandmother and how each of them, in their own way, ends up creating an indissoluble link with their grandchildren.

Arancha Perpiñán Illustrator

Beascoa, May 2021
Hardcover, 280 x 250 mm, 48 pp
Rights sold: China (PMPH)

A fun book about a wonderful moment of childhood: losing old teeth and getting new ones!

Little Rosalía looks inside her mouth and she's not happy. There's nothing broken in there! This delightfully fun illustrated story tells Rosalía's story, the tale of a little girl who wants her tooth to come out and grow up, and she'll stop at nothing until it happens. She dreams up every wacky idea she can think of, and in the end, she goes "toothless" in the most unexpected way.

- A rhyming book that uses humour to talk about children who want to be something they're not or who don't like something about themselves, always with a happy ending.
- The perfect book for the whole family that makes addressing important parts of child development fun.

Raquel Díaz Reguera

Lumen, March 2021
Hardcover, 260 x 225 mm, 48 pp

A new album from Raquel Díaz Reguera that continues the When Girls Fly High saga.

The girls have discovered that if they take the stones out of their pockets they can fly as high as they want to. If they all beat their wings at the same time, they can rise above the ceiling of the clouds that the villains have placed in their way. Now, this patrol of brave girls and boys is ready and willing to work on getting rid of the everyday cases of machismo and chauvinism that are abundant in our society.

- A new instalment from the successful saga by Raquel Díaz Reguera, who continues to amaze us with an empowering and brilliant message.

Spellbound

David Aceituno Author
Esther Gili Illustrator
Beascoa, July 2021
Hardcover, 270 × 300 mm, 88 pp

Do you think magic is just a bunch of hokey old spells and cheap tricks? Well, if you open your eyes and your heart, you'll realize that the little things in life contain their own kind of magic...

Who are the Spellbound? What makes them different from fairies and witches? What's a typical day for the Spellbound? In the pages of this book, with splendid illustrations by Esther Gili and a lyrical text by David Aceituno, you will learn everything about these magical creatures: the legend of their origin, the different forms they take and even the secrets, desires and behavior of the Perfectly Spellbound.

Spells, humor and storytelling, all in a delightful picture book that reminds us of the magic that's hidden in the little things.

David Aceituno graduated in Philosophy from the Universidad Central de Barcelona. He is the author of the book of poems Sylvia & Ted and of the illustrated albums Besos que fueron y no fueron (2011), Ensueños (2012), Encantadas (2015) and Las palabras (no) se las lleva el viento (2016), amongst others.

The Mysticats

VVAA
Alfaguara I&J, September 2021
Softcover, 140 × 202 mm, 128 pp

A new series of puzzle books for early readers: a gang of four street cats who solve mysteries around the barrio

The Mysticats:
Freckles: She's the one who always calls the shots.
Tiger: A super brave cat—he's not afraid of anything.
Gus: A very absent-minded Siamese who always bumbles everything.
Mia: A skittish tabby who's a big wuss. She's Tiger's twin sister, but the two are like night and day. She is sweet and sensitive, and in the end, she's the one who always discovers the mystery's missing piece.

In the first book of the series, which is full of mazes and spot-the-difference puzzles, the Mysticats help Dulce, the barrio's local pastry chef, solve the mystery of why no one buys her sweets. As we complete the puzzles, we discover that Señor Fromage has hired a squad of gastronomically savvy mice to sabotage her recipes. If she loses too many customers, she'll have to close her bakery, and Señor Fromage will steal her location, which is the best in the barrio.

Barcelona is destroyed. Everyone over twenty-two is dead. The older kids have taken control of the streets. Only two choices remain: to fight, or to give up. Astrea was never one for giving up.

Six months have passed since the arrival of the Silence, the day when all the adults died. But its presence lingers. Chaos has taken over the city. The kids are defenseless. The teenagers' days are numbered. They know that on their twenty-second birthday, their death is inevitable. Astrea is only sixteen, but she isn't prepared to sit down and die. She will fight for her destiny, even if that means losing what little she has left.

- Winner of the Jaén Prize for YA Narrative 2019.

Six months had passed since the arrival of the Silence. That was what they called the day when the adults died. Everyone over the age of twenty-two, every single one, dropped dead within barely three hours.

The planet, on the verge of collapse, had created a world pandemic capable of eradicating in a flash all those human beings who had caused climate change, who had polluted the rivers, seas and oceans, and created nuclear devices that could destroy all life on earth. But, as an act of generosity, nature had decided to grant survival to those who couldn't be blamed for any of it: children.

Just like the best summer of your life: you'll never want it to end.

In some remote southern village by the sea, our heroine is locked in a prison of gold, almost like a princess. She wonders what total freedom would be like, yearns to know how it would feel to be in charge of her own life.

In that same remote southern village, just a few meters away, our hero, Jorge de las Dunas, tries to survive life with his cousins, and he wonders if he'll ever be able to focus on the things he wants from life, rather than his family's needs. Tragically, our heroine never gets to make decisions, not even when they affect her own life. Meanwhile, our hero has spent his whole life making decisions and trying to do his best, to do what's right. She needs to recover her freedom. He needs to start fighting for the things he wants. She is plagued by questions. So is he, though he doesn't know it. One stormy night, with only the rain and the raging sea as witnesses, their lives cross paths. Our hero and heroine find one another. To learn more, you'll have to read on...

Nosotras is a Word for You and Me

Melo Moreno

Montena, October 2021
Softcover, 150 × 215 mm, 256 pp

A touching YA story about the love between two young women

For Alex, moving to Barcelona for university was a change of pace like she'd never imagined: the city was completely different from the small pueblo where she grew up, and it felt so far from her boyfriend, her friends and all the other people she had known her whole life. But it's also where she meets Joana. After crashing into each other one day, they find they get along especially well.

Little by little, Joana and Alex get to know each other and become close. Alex begins to question how she should approach her life, what she truly wants and, most of all, who she really is.

This novel also includes plenty of friendship, gossip, fights, doubts, emotions... And a great love story, this time about two young women.

- A guaranteed success from an LGBTQ+ author whose only other book, a work of nonfiction, sold over 15,500 copies.

Fat Isn't An Insult

Luisa Verdee

Alfaguara, June 2021
Hardcover, 140 x 215 mm, 220 pp

A novel about a teenager who begins to discover the societal demands placed on her new body, and who embarks on a journey of body positivity and self-love.

They wanted me to hate myself. Why? Because I'm fat. My name is Ámbar, and this is the journey I've been on since my body started changing. I'll tell you about the toughest moments, the happiest days and the times I questioned my own identity. And I'll tell you about discovering body positivity and self-love.

My family and friends, and even the salespeople at the mall, all pressured me to hate my body because it's "voluptuous," but I resisted. I did some thinking, and I decided I wanted to live a fat, powerful, happy life... That last part turned out to be the most difficult of all.

The most important thing I learned along the way is that "fat" isn't an insult. It's just another word in the dictionary.

- A book which brings together two fascinating and trending topics: science and mythology.

Nuestra estrella
El Sol es una estrella de tamaño mediano y el cuerpo más grande del sistema solar.

Se formó junto con el resto de planetas y astros que giran a su alrededor a partir de una nube de elementos que flotaba por el espacio. Tan enorme era la nube, y tanto se apretó a sí misma gracias a la fuerza de gravedad, que su centro se transformó en una enorme bola de hidrógeno cuyo interior se incendió con energía, luz y calor. Desde entonces, el Sol no ha dejado de brillar. Algún día se apagará, pero para que eso ocurra... ¡aún faltan miles de millones de años!

Sol Invictus
El Sol ha sido muchos dioses a lo largo de la historia. Conocido como Apolo o Helios desde los antiguos griegos, para nosotros su nombre proviene del latín, la lengua hablada por los antiguos romanos. Es el Sol Invictus, «el Inconquistable», que en invierno derrota a la oscuridad y trae días más largos y noches más cortas.

Hoy en día sabemos que el Sol no es un dios ni una fuerza mística, sino una de las muchas estrellas que hay en el universo.

Activities and fun experiments to learn everything about the craziest phenomenon in the universe. Eclipses!

Learn about eclipses and deepen your understanding of the universe. What did eclipses mean for our ancestors, how and why do they happen, which were the most important ones in history? Learn many curious details!

By the same author:

Lo mismo pasa con los planetas. Desde que nacieron han estado dando vueltas alrededor del Sol con cierta velocidad. Si la velocidad de la Tierra fuera menor, nuestro planeta cedería a la fuerza de gravedad del Sol y terminaría ¡carbonizado! Si la velocidad fuera mayor, la Tierra escaparía y quedaría viajando por el espacio.

CONCLUSIÓN: LOS PLANETAS GIRAN ALREDEDOR DEL SOL A LA VELOCIDAD JUSTA PARA EQUILIBRAR EL TIRÓN QUE LES PRODUCE LA FUERZA DE GRAVEDAD SOLAR.

Gracias a Johannes Kepler e Isaac Newton, no solo tenemos una explicación de por qué los planetas giran alrededor del Sol, también sabemos que la fuerza de gravedad explica por qué la Luna da vueltas en torno a la Tierra y por qué todo el Sistema Solar recorre la galaxia ¡conigo incluido, que siempre vas viajando por el espacio! De hecho, debido a la fuerza de gravedad, cada hora que pasa recorres más de 100.000 kilómetros alrededor de una estrella llamada Sol, y unos 800.000 kilómetros (el doble de la distancia de la Tierra a la Luna) alrededor del centro de la galaxia. Estos viajes ocurren arriba del cohete más espectacular de todos: ¡la Tierra!

Ahora que una simple manzana te dio la explicación científica de por qué los objetos en el espacio orbitan otros cuerpos celestes, es muy fácil entender por qué se producen los eclipses.

Are We Alone In The Universe?
New questions and new answers
in a new book about the stars and life on other planets!

Science is the search for answers to the questions that we've always asked. The goal of astronomy is to bring us closer to some of the universe's great mysteries. Why does the universe exist? Why is there life on Earth? Is this the only inhabited planet in the galaxy? And in the universe? Is there life on other worlds? If there is, what is it like? Can we communicate with them?

José Ramón García Guinarte Author
Carmen Gonzalez Pintos Illustrator

B de Blok, October 2021
Hardcover, 205 × 205 mm, 192 pp

The self-published Amazon smash hit arrives at PRH, where it will become the first volume in an educational series for kids.

The Orthographic Intelligence System is a project led by neuroscientist, researcher and university professor José Ramón García Guinarte. It offers a foolproof method for eliminating spelling errors from our writing.

This book will be the first in a series for kids based on learning methods derived from analysis of how the brain works. These ad-hoc techniques, developed by the author himself, are not the product of any particular school within the field of education; rather, they are based on neuroscience.

• SIO, a self-published project, has been in Amazon’s TOP 3 for a month, selling 750 copies a day, with over 20,000 copies sold in one month.

• The author is a philosopher and holds a degree in education science. He is a specialist in neurolinguistic programming and clinical hypnosis with over 25 years of experience in the field of high academic performance and the functioning of the human brain.

• He created the “Memorize-IDI” numeric memorization system, which is based on the technological development of Pierre Herigon’s 18th-century alphanumeric system. Memorize-IDI has been the #1 national education app on several occasions.

• He has also contributed to the development of three education apps that Apple has recommended internationally: “The Miracle of Life,” “Experience Life” and “Energy for Life.” He currently heads the Instituto de Neurociencia y Alto Rendimiento, combining teaching and research with his professional activity as a managing director in the civil service.

The history of Mexico (and of the world) is full of courageous women who fought with all their might to achieve their goals. Fields like politics, art, engineering and the sciences have always been enriched by the contributions of women who—in defiance of those who said they couldn’t—paved the way for themselves and future generations.

Turbulent Heart

Gema Moraleda

Bruguera, November 2021
Hardcover, 170 x 240 mm, 144 pp

An illustrated biography commemorating the hundredth birthday of Carmen Laforet, author of Nada.

In 1944, a 23-year-old woman named Carmen Laforet revolutionized the Spanish literary landscape with her novel Nada. Her portrait of a stifling Barcelona in the years following the Spanish Civil War received the first-ever Nadal Prize and launched Laforet's long career, during which she would continually be forced to give an explanation for daring to be the person she was, namely, young and a woman.

On the hundredth centenary of Laforet's birth, this illustrated biography pays homage to a writer whose intensely personal career was marked by non-conformity, and whose legacy is more relevant today than ever before.

I Am Magic, I Am Brave

Roxana Ramos

Nube de Tinta, October 2020
Softcover, 220 x 220mm, 64 pp

A book of poetry and a personal diary all in one. An invitation to heal, to understand, to perform a personal analysis inspired by the logic that guides life, relationships and heartbreak.

Soy magia, soy valiente is a book of brief verses for those going through a significant loss: the loss of a soulmate. It contains fifty photographs shrouded in nostalgia, "photographs you can smell": petrichor, dew, vegetation, forest. Its 110 entries include prose narratives, inspiring phrases and fifty blank pages for readers to write their own story based on what they're reading, thereby transforming this book into a personal diary.

We talk about common sense ways to make it through adversity. After finishing, readers will place the book back on the shelf and see all the progress they've made toward healing and understanding.

This is a book to save forever, and not to loan to others; a personal gem.

Know yourself! It's the only way to be happy!

We think we know who we are. But sometimes life's setbacks make us afraid, or anxious. If we don't know how to recognise those feelings, accept they're a part of us, and accept the fact that our minds react to certain realities in certain ways, we will never know how to face fear, anxiety or rejection. And we'll never overcome them.

Ana Mas Villaseñor shows us how to get to know ourselves better with simple, practical exercises, and how to connect with our deep, true selves and turn our minds into the safe places we've always wanted to dwell in.

- A very visual book that uses the right words for a simple kind of conversation.
